Subject : CRPF takes a lead role in the e-governance initiative of the Government of India

Today (10/03/2017) the Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) has taken a major e-governance initiative with the launch of the final phase of the Financial Management software to go paperless with its budget distribution and monitoring on a pan India basis among more than its 400 establishments spread across the country. DG CRPF, Shri Sudeep Lakhtakia, IPS, has formally inaugurated the system.

The Force will henceforth process all its procurements and personal claims online through the intranet and have seamless integration with the Pay & Accounts Offices. With SMS alerts and real time reports the expenditure management will ensure highest standards of transparency. This in-house development has been made with the objective of simplifying the work processes to ensure expeditious settlement of claims of jawans and suppliers.
